NEW LONDON'S POLICE MUDDLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Feb. 20.—William E. Jackson, county investigator, connected with the office of State Attorney Hull, has been doing some important investigation in connection with the robbery of the late Nelson, which has resulted in the arrest of several men and a woman, and more arrests are to follow before the work of investigation is completed. As a matter of course he did his work in the junction with members of the local police department and is according the cops all possible credit. Just the same the investigator did a very neat job in not only running down the thieves, but in recovering much of the booty and ascertaining just what was done with the rest. He learned that some of the stolen goods had been sold to dealers in some of the larger cities and he is engaged in just a little bit more investigating along that line.

Soon after the mysterious burglary happened right in the business section of the city and the local police without a clue, it was given out by the department, according to public print, that the affair was an "inside job," intimating that whoever did the stealing had full knowledge of the location of the best goods in the store, were familiar with the premises, and actually hinting that the theft was committed by some individual connected with the store. That is a liberal meaning of the term "inside job." No sensible person took any stock in this police assertion, but, in a way, it had a tendency to excuse the police from being charged with inefficiency in not probing the matter to the end and bringing the guilty one to the bar of justice. If for no other reason of removing the stigma of the "inside job" which has been hanging over the police since the late Nelson robbery, the police department should be commended. He has magnanimously shared his success with the local police, in giving the officers he named probably more credit than was actually their due.

It was a standing order, years ago, in a local newspaper office, when there is a dearth of news, to write something of the police, favorable or otherwise. It was a live subject then, but has been much more livelier subject for the past three years than ever before. The Tate and Nelson robbery hurried the cherished three-plate plan, and at a time when really it is not necessary, when the past is considered, with no saloons the real work of the police is lessened, but the cops put in their time just the same and are entitled to draw full pay, and none begrudge the amount they receive. But with a couple of years within a year, bringing the pay of a patrolman up to $130 a month, these city servants are receiving the full worth of their hire. Very recently the blue-coated guardians of the peace asked for another increase of $25 a month.

This request was turned down with a heavy thud by the mayor and the police committee. The cops were reminded that they had steady lifeboats at good pay, with no loss of time, a day a week off in addition to a vacation of two weeks each year, and if this did not suit they had the privilege of turning in their badges and accounts and get another job. The mayor and the police committee went even further and issued orders that agitation for an increase in pay must cease forthwith. To agitate now is a violation of police orders, and violation means dismissal from the force. There are many men of police material who have applications in for jobs on the police force and they are being taken on just as fast as places can be made for them under the three-plate plan, which requires a larger police force than ever before.

All is not smooth sailing in the police department and there is some justification for the turbulence of the police sea by the action of this same department and police committee, in the election of new members to the force, and which is sometimes detrimental to the standing of seasoned men on the force, and has a tinge of favoritism, politics, pull or something aside from the legitimate. There has been just a little out of the ordinary, and perhaps outside of the police rules, in the matter of some of the recent appointments, so it is claimed by those familiar with the ins and the outs of the transactions. These are little matters to the management, but they bear hard on the men that are affected by the act-backs given them to pave the way for others who have been favored by the appointing powers.

But, perhaps, this so-called civil service examination scheme, which seems to prevail just at this time, may bring about a change for the better.

New London has a larger police force at the present time than any city of equal size in the state, and before the summer comes it is planned to make the department a semi-military organization, on the New York plan. The men are to be drilled in military movements and small arms practice, and, perhaps, in the handling of rapid-fire guns, and the general discipline is to be of the regular army type. This is perhaps with the view of having an annual parade of the department as is the case in the big city of Hartford, as well as in New York. It will be a happy day for the department when the people line the streets and greet the cops as they march along, to the strains of perhaps of the police band. What New London really needs is more real efficiency from the police department, and less attempt at dress parade, which latter seems to be the aim of the governing powers. Think of it, a three-plate police plan in the smallest city in the state of Connecticut.

GRAND ARMY

The 1920 encampment of the G. A. R. will be held in Atlantic City from Sept. 26 to Oct. 2. These dates were selected at Atlantic City at conference of the National council, Daniel M. Hall, Columbus, G. O. commander-in-chief, and other national officers. The parade, always a feature of the conventions will take place on Wednesday, Sept. 29 and will be one of the most impressive ceremonies in the history of the organization.

Gray-haired veterans hooh-hoed a report that there would be no big street demonstration at the convention. "We'll parade as long as the Grand Army continues in existence and there is even a corporal's guard left able to tramp to fighting music," declared W. J. O'Neill of Columbus.

"When the Grand Army stops parading it goes out of business."

Reports today showed that 26 of the "boys" died during January alone. Sessions of the National encampment will be held on the steel pier. There was great interest among National Officers over the proposed federation of all veteran organizations. The committee is expected to be favorable with the single reservation that G. A. R. will not lose its identity. The total number of Civil War veterans alive today was placed at approximately 200,000.

Are You Losing "Pop?" Do you feel tired all the time? Do your back ache? Do you feel you are not so spry as you used to be? Middle-aged men and women often blame coming old age for loss of ambition and energy when it is overworked or rich food that causes them to feel old before their time. Foley Kidney Pills tone up and invigorate the kidneys, banish backache, rid the blood of poisons. Rev. W. E. M. Swynolds, Macon, Ga., writes: "I am ready any time to give you Foley Kidney Pills."
